

ANSWERS

1. I am believed to be a hammer resembling the hammer used by Norse God Thor. It is said I am from the 10th century. I was found in Denmark.
2. I am an old record keeping device! I am called a 'quipu' or 'talking device.' I am from a very old civilisation called the Norte Chico. I was used to collect data, from things such as tax collection!
3. I am in fact a baby's bottle plus a rattle. I am made from terracotta, the same material that plant pots are made from. I am around 2,400 years old and its believed I may have been used by the Messapian People who lived in Italy.
4. I am in fact a flute! I am thought to be the oldest musical instrument ever discovered, dating around 60,000 years old. I am made from the femur bone of a bear!
5. The truth is we are statues, but Historians don't really know what we were used for or why we even exist in the first place! We were discovered in Iraq and are believed to be from a tribe that lived around thousands and thousands of years ago! We have a range of statues with half human and half lizard features!